Description

Looking for more space without taking on more house than you actually need + NO city taxes? This 3-bedroom, 2-bath home in the Bloomingdale area of Kingsport offers a thoughtfully separated floor plan, .49 acres of outdoor space, and the kind of storage and parking options that can be surprisingly hard to find.

The main level includes the main suite and the home's everyday living spaces, creating a convenient setup that keeps what you use most within easy reach. Upstairs, two additional bedrooms share a full bathroom, giving you a separate area that can easily accommodate bedrooms, guests, a home office, hobbies, or whatever extra space fits your lifestyle. All the closets are larger than you will find in most homes and leave space for adding in extra shelves as well as providing storage space.

Outside is where this property really adds flexibility. With a .49 acres corner lot, there is room to enjoy the outdoors without the maintenance that comes with several acres. Two driveways provide additional parking options, while the detached garage offers valuable space for vehicles, tools, projects, equipment, or hobbies.

And the storage doesn't stop there. The property also includes a storage shed and an additional block outbuilding, giving you even more room for lawn equipment, seasonal items, workshop space, or the things you simply don't want taking over the house. The unfinished basement has an easily-accessible walk-in entry and can also be used for another storage option.

Inside, you'll find an updated kitchen with newer stainless appliances, along with comfortable living areas that offer plenty of opportunity to make the home your own.

If your wish list includes a main-level suite, three bedrooms, two full bathrooms, garage space, multiple driveways, additional storage, and nearly half an acre, this Kingsport property brings those features together in one practical package at an actual afforable price and without buying more house than you really need.
